

BANGOR NEWS.

MONDAY, JUNE 7, 1841.

The papers received this morning contain Mr. Webster's correspondence with Mr. Fox on the McLeod affair. The correspondence comprises three official letters; one from the British Minister to the Secretary of State, demanding the immediate release of McLeod, on the ground that the act with which he is charged was committed under public and competent authority, and for which, therefore, he cannot be held personally responsible; a second from the Secretary of State in reply, conceding the principle asserted by Mr. Fox, but showing that the enforcement of that principle, in the case at issue, does not belong to its present stage, to the Government of the United States; and a third from Mr. Webster, which properly have taken cognizance of the matter, and the third, from the Secretary of State to the Attorney General, setting forth the views of the United States Government, and instructing him as to the course required of him as the Government's legal adviser and officer.

The communication of Mr. Fox contains a general statement which we have answered by Mr. Webster, with a dignified, temperate, but sufficiently explicit intimation of the confidence entertained by the Government of the United States in its ability to vindicate the national honor and defend itself against aggression. We shall endeavor to give an abstract, embodying the material points of the correspondence, in our next. The New York Express speaks of Mr. Webster's letter as "one of the very ablest State papers that ever emanated from the State Department." The delicate, yet just rebuke of England for her constant interference in the internal affairs of other nations, and the avowal that our Government is the first which ever passed enactments to restrain such interference on the part of her citizens, are well stated, and must transfix the blush of Mr. Fox's "ribbon to his own cheek."

We learn from an Extra from the office of the Boston Herald, that considerable excitement occurred in Boston on Saturday, in consequence of the forcible detention of a negro slave on board the s.s. Wellington, from Newberg, N. C. He had been concealed among the cargo, and the Wellington was five days out of Newberg before the captain or crew discovered that he was on board. It appeared on examination that before the s.s. arrived in Boston, the owner of the slave had received information that the slave was on board; and he was kept shut up in the cabin, in compliance with the request of the owner. In the absence of the captain, the slave escaped; but he was retaken, and returned to the schooner.

The captain then put the slave in chains, one on each arm, fastened down the hatches, provided six loaded muskets, to defend himself, as he said, against the attacks of a mob, if one should be raised by the Abolitionists, as was apprehended. He also placed a large quantity of powder under the deck, and swore that he would blow the vessel up, if a rescue should be attempted.

Measures were no doubt in progress to effect the release of the slave, when the Wellington disappeared, and that in the last that has been seen or heard of her, or the slave.

Sam Higgins, the male, who gave the information to the Abolitionists, and who aided in concealing the slave, was then arrested and put upon his examination.

No defence was attempted, and he was held to bail in $500 for his appearance at a higher court for trial.

Temperance Celebrations. We perceive that arrangements are making all over the country for Temperance celebrations. We understand that the annual meeting of the W. V. F. Society of this city occurs on the 4th of July, and we hope that they with other friends of Temperance will unite in a celebration of the day.

Robert's Magazine. The number for June 1st is before us, and is, as usual, filled with useful and amusing matter. It appears, by a note of the publishers, that they have purchased the Evergreen, published in New York, at the expense of the New World, and that the subscribers to that periodical will be supplied with the Magazine instead of it.

At the N. H. Legislature. The Legislature convened in Concord, on Wednesday last. The Senate, as organized by the choice of Josiah Quincy, Esq., for President; Isaac L. Colburn, Esq., Clerk; and B. Wiggin, Esq., Assistant Clerk. In the House, John B. Wells, Esq., was chosen Speaker; Henry Hubbard, Esq., Clerk; and Albert G. Austin, Esq., Assistant Clerk.

History. An appalling case of this terrible kind has just occurred at New York, near No. 7 Park. The subject was a little girl, a daughter of Lawrence Myers. She was bitten in March by a dog, which soon went mad and was killed. No evil consequences were anticipated, however, from the bite of the little girl. The dog, however, died a few days since, and was buried in a neighbor's garden, - a few feet from her mother's grave, - walking with her to a physician, but the child died - - - - - air and the light. During the walk, she ran into a neighbor's house to hide herself. She then hid her face, from apparent fear, in her mother's bosom, begging to be allowed to return home and go to bed. Subsequently, light, air, and water, produced a fit of fits from the mouth. After a few days of spasmodic and shuddering convulsions, she died, bright and cheerful.

During Mortality. Of the one hundred and twenty-two Measles cases in the New Haven district in the last Congress, only thirty-one have been registered.

CONGRESS.

In the House of Trade, two hundred copies of the President's Message were ordered to be printed. This was half a equal number, a fair sample of economy. Messrs. Clay and Buchanan expressed their satisfaction. Mr. Clay insisted on the importance of prompt and thorough reenactment. Mr. Buchanan hoped for a reform in the stationary department, where there had been extravagance and waste.

Mr. Clay moved that to-morrow the Senate proceed to the appointment of the Standing Committee to take into consideration those parts of the Message relating to Finance, and a Vice-Agency, "I mean of course," said Mr. Clay, "a Bank of the United States."

In the House, ten thousand extra copies of the President's Message, with the accompanying documents, were ordered to be printed.

Mr. Adams offered a resolution for the appointment of a Committee to confer with one from the Senate as to what token of respect and affection Congress should adopt in memory of the late President.

Mr. Graham of N. C. gave notice of a resolution for the repeal of the Sub Treasury.

In the Senate, on Wednesday, Mr. Benton submitted a resolution calling for information from the President as to finance disbursements, &c., &c., of public money, amount of Treasury notes issued, since the 4th of March, amount due from disbursing officers and from the late Bank of the U. S., the revenue and expenses for the last three months, the allowance made from Florida claims since the 4th March, &c., &c. The resolution was ordered to be printed, and lies on the table.

The chairman of the several committees were then balloted for, the members being appointed by the President. The following was the result:

Foreign Relations: Mr. Rives, of Va. Finance: Mr. Clay, of Ky. Commerce: Mr. Huntington, of Conn. Manufactures: Mr. Evans, of Me. Agriculture: Mr. Fitch, of Missouri. Military Affairs: Mr. Preston, of S. C. Militia: Mr. Phelps, of Vermont. Naval Affairs: Mr. Mangan, of North Carolina. Public Lands: Mr. Smith, of Indiana. Private Banks: Mr. Bayard, of Delaware. Indian Affairs: Mr. Morehead, of Kentucky. Claims: Mr. Graham, of N. C. Revolutionary Claims: Mr. Dixon, of B. I. Judiciary: Mr. Berrien, of Ga. Post Office and Post Roads: Mr. Henderson, of Michigan. Pensions: Mr. Bates, of Mass. District of Columbia: Mr. Merrick, of Md. Patents: Mr. Prentiss.

Mr. Clay's resolution for the appointment of a Select Committee of nine to consider that part of the message which refers to fiscal affairs was adopted; as was also the resolution for a joint committee to whom shall be referred so much of the President's Message as refers to the death of C. G. Harrison.

In the House nothing was done but the passage of the customary resolutions in favor of Mr. Ogle.

TAXES. The Bangor Democrat makes a serious charge against the "Kent Administration," that it has doubled the State taxes since it came into power. Is it possible the readers of that paper are so thick headed that they do not know why their taxes are doubled, and who incurred the debts which the people have now to pay? Have they never heard of the sale of State stocks at 75 per cent. of the expenditures under the civil pose, of the ten dollars a day for a superintendent in making roads; of Sheriff Strickland's accounts, and the Land Agent's loss of vouchers, &c., not, they had better read Mr. Little's speech, published by us some time since (which by the way, the Democrat never lets its readers know any thing about); and also read Mr. Morse's speech in this paper. These documents would furnish the readers of the Democrat something new, and be quite a relief after reading week after week exaggerated stories and falsehoods without measure about Biddle and the U. S. Bank. They may, perhaps, think it of some consequence to know why THIRTY SEVEN THOUSAND DAYS WORK WERE PAID FOR, MORE THAN WERE REQUIRED: why the subsistence of these men cost four dollars a week, and why many of them were paid two dollars a day when as good or better men could have been found for the same work.

MEETINGS. Among the emigrant ships recently arrived in Nova Scotia, we notice the Margaret Pollock, at Prince Edward's Island from Belfast, Ireland, with six hundred and sixty-eight passengers, twenty-six children under five years of age died on the passage out, and of those on board fourteen were sick with the measles when she arrived.

We have been favored by a gentleman in St. Stephen, with the following letter, received last week from a Mercantile house in Antigua.

Cards. April 8, 1841.

Dear Sir: - It pleased Almighty God to visit us on the night of Friday the 2d inst., with an awful and destructive fire, by which nearly half the commercial part of our town (St. John) has been destroyed. We fear the loss will approach, if not exceed $500,000.

All business is for the present arrested, and a short time must elapse before our suspended routine of business is resumed.

Among the principal sufferers, are Mr. Mason, Collard, Bigelow, Ward, A. McDowell & Co., J. Crossford, J. F. Smyth, Bodger, J. Athill & Co., J. Jones & Co., D. B. Gardiner, Hill & Morris, and John Winter.

A great quantity of lumber and bread stuffs have been destroyed, and these articles will be in demand; but we do not think prices will much exceed our recent quotations, which we concur in for the present.

We remain, Dear Sir,

Yours faithfully,

B. D. HAMPTON'S PATENT.
It is a singular fact and one which for a long time it has been, as well as they became popular, and have received the general approbation of discriminating people, as to its counterfeiting; that a bad and spurious article is immediately palmed upon the unsuspecting at the genuine. This has been notoriously the case with all popular tried and truly valuable medicines for years past, and will probably continue to be the case for years to come.

The base and contemptible counterfeiter in this case, by many mistakes advantage of all the efforts and the advertising used by the proprietors of the genuine article to get their medicine into use and do it deserved popularity. It is therefore not less the duty than it is constituted to the safety of every honest individual in the community, to expose them down, and forever after dispossess all heartless imitators, who thus irresponsibly risk the health and life.

THEIR BEFORE TIME NOTICE.

There is a person by the name of J. B. ROGERS, FULTON, who is engaged in selling a Pill dose up, in bottles in exact and perfect imitation of the genuine INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS, with the omission of only one word on the boxes, viz. WRIGHT. The pills sold by this knaves are evidently intended as a fraud and imposition upon the community, or they would not have been made up in such exact imitation of the genuine. This person is tall and bluetering, with a great Theatrical swagger. He was recently known as a very poor player in Baltimore, under the musical cognomen of Jim Brown, and is about twenty five years of age. It is almost beyond a doubt that he is supplied with the Pills from a Druggist here in this city, who have been heretofore notoriously connected with counterfeit medicines.
As soon as his identity is attained, the scoundrel head of this nefarious business will be exposed, that the community may shun them as they would a serpent.

IN THE MEANTIME THE PUBLIC ARE

CAUTIONED
against buying WRIGHT'S Indian Vegetable Pills of any one who does not exhibit a certificate of agency, signed by the agent for the New England States, and bearing date since January, 1840. Also take particular notice that the following wording is on the boxes:

WRIGHT'S Indian Vegetable Pills (Indi-Purgative) of the North American College of Health.

The INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS are a certain cure for disease in every variety of form, because they thoroughly cleanse the stomach and bowels, induce a proper discharge by the lungs, skin and kidney, and stimulate the blood to purify itself.
In other words they open all the natural ducts, and lead NATURE (THE GRAND PHYSICIAN) to drive disease from the body. The above outlets, or drains, are the common sewers of the body, through which all impure and corrupt humors (the cause of disease) are carried off and so long as they are all kept open, and discharge freely their allotted portions of impurity the body will continue in health; but when from eating improper food, breathing impure air, violent transitions from heat to cold, over exertion, or any other cause, the bowels become constipated, the pores of the skin become closed or the kidneys fail to perform their functions properly, the impurities which should be drained from the body by these outlets will be retained, and continue to accumulate until the body becomes literally loaded with disease.

The above pills may be taken at all times, and under all circumstances, with perfect safety. They cure all complaints and allages, and are as natural to the human constitution as food, consequently they can never injure even the most delicate. Like water they are digestible, therefore they enter into the circulation, and impart an energy to the blood which enables it to flow with freedom, quite to the extremities, and consequently to keep the pores of the skin open. They are true and perfect purifiers of the blood, because they drain all corrupt humors from that life giving fluid. They are all strength and vigor to the whole system, and their effects are always beneficial; because they only remove those humors which are opposed to health. They aid and improve digestion, and sound sleep follows their use; because they cleanse the stomach and bowels of their slimy humors which not only irritate and excite the nervous system, but paralyze and weaken the digestive organs. In short they possess all the good properties that can be claimed for any medicine, and what is very remarkable, it is utterly impossible to use them with out benefit.
